Exemption

Degree holders may be exempted from the Knowledge Level exams, provided they have already completed similar modules as part of their degree programmes. Contact ACCA to discuss individual cases, which saves money and time, but be sure to do so before enrolling on a specific level of study at the College. If you inform the College of your exemption only after the start of tuition for papers you have enrolled on, you will still be charged for those papers.

Qualifications lead to a degree

Students who pass all the ACCA ‘Fundamental’ modules (F1 to F9) can move on to an Oxford Brooks BSc (Hons) in Applied Accounting. On that track you take Paper P1, Professional Accountant, then complete the Professional Ethics Paper, and then submit a Research and Analysis Project to the University.
